

Appendix 3. Rules-in-use.

Rules-in-use (GS6)	Rules
Operational rules* (GS6.1)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The RESEX is divided into six use zones: Population, Extraction, Recovery, Community Reserve, Priority Conservation, Priority Sustainable Tourism - Access to natural resources is restricted to registered CT RESEX users - Welfare subsidies only given to individuals or families meeting certain conditions - Fishing gear limited to traditional and small-scale techniques - Seasonal closure for crab reproduction, but no compensation - No harvesting of female crabs, minimum male crab size of 6 cm carapace - Enforcement should include community participation - Basic infrastructure for harvesting can be built (e.g., paths, roads, piers) - Tax paid by registered users to Deliberative Council - Graduated sanctions
Collective choice rules* (GS6.2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Deliberative Council (DC) develops management plan and its implementation - All complaints about the RESEX are dealt with in the DC - DC collects user tax funds to develop monitoring programs - Can enforce graduated sanctions - DC is supposed to meet every 3 months, but receive no financial support - Decision making is done by voting by the different stakeholders on the council - Consensus is needed when voting, but when it is not reached, a vote is taken - Which stakeholders are on the council is constitutionally mandated - Management plan valid for at least one year from the date of its approval by IBAMA. Proposals for changes can only be made after this period
Constitutional rules* (GS6.3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Formal management plan given to IBAMA to approve - RESEX must have a Deliberative Council with specific stakeholders involved - 50 year land use concession granted to users - Management plan needs to be updated every 5 years - Any significant social or environmental intervention in the RESEX must be approved by the respective supervisory agencies - Changes in the rules may neither conflict with the objectives of the reserve nor with current national environmental legislation
* Rules are not a fully exhaustive list	